Whereas, remote proctoring services "require access to technology that not all students are guaranteed