

DRAFT Minutes

DRAFT

empathy interviews, and conversations with students. There was also discussion about the creation of a Green Book, which would list faculty who best serve students of color. Jordan expressed his concerns that this could create a rift between faculty, and was not sure who criteria. Jordan was interested in hearing what others thought about this idea. David Marasco and Carolyn Holcroft clarified that this would be a student-created list, and that Green Books already exist. David Marasco also mentioned that DDEAC was tasked with providing input to the Board of Trustees on their board priorities, which were approved last Monday.

3) Ethnic Studies: There was some movement on the ethnic studies conversation. David Marasco mentioned that Ben Armerding (LA CCC rep)

DRAFT

- < Concern about paying for an Ethnic Studies department.
- < The mandatory training seemed problematic to one colleague Who would provide it? By what methods? How would it be enforced?
- < Conversation about dismantling the police force One colleague wanted statistics to back up the anecdotal evidence, but another confirmed they knew of both students and

DRAFT

