

Admin Council Survey Results Fall 2021

COL

January 10, 2022
D. Finkelstein, FH IRP

Admin Council meetings: benefits

Respondents share information from
Admin Council (71%)

Admin Council helps to build community among admins and supervisors (63%)

Admin Council meetings: challenges

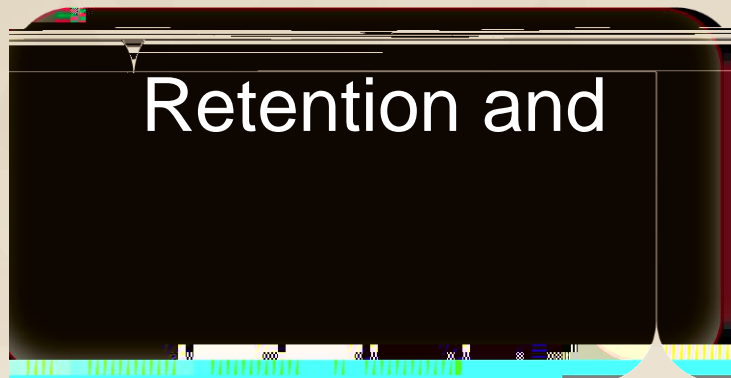

Meetings do not facilitate being effective in their job (79%)

Meetings are generally not a good use of their time (67%)

Admin Council is not a source of important information not heard elsewhere (58%)

Important topics for Admin Council

Most frequently rated as “very important”

Valued aspects of Admin Council

Open-ended responses

Sharing information

“It's a good opportunity to hear what other areas are doing.”

“There is great value in coming together to discuss, learn, solve problems, and identify opportunities.”

Leveraging expertise

“The time to collaborate and leverage the expertise of each other.”

Building relationships

“It is a form of community with administrators. We rarely get to see each other on campus.”

Improving Admin Council

Open-ended responses

More efficient and focused

“Have clear outcomes for each agenda item.”

“More focused meetings.”

Clear objectives and desired outcomes

Circulate agendas in advance

“Most of the reporting could be done by email.”

“Make it meaningful.”

Send information-only updates via email

Summary: strengths and challenges of Admin Council

Admin Council strengths

- Build community
- Share information
- Leverage expertise to address problems

Admin Council challenges

- Not efficient
- Meetings not seen as a good use of time
- Objectives can be unclear

For consideration:

What is the purpose of Admin Council?

Next steps?